Introduction to Ethnic Studies: Land and Labor
Lectures: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday
1:00-1:50pm, Peterson 108

Professor: Mattie Harper
Email: mharper@ucsd.edu
Office: SSB 249
Office Hours: 2-3pm, Monday at the Intertribal Resource Center, Wednesday at my office

Course Description:
Part of a year-long introduction to Ethnic Studies, this course examines key historical events and debates in the field that center around land and labor. By examining the origins and consequences of settler colonialism and state land management, chattel slavery and coerced labor, immigration flows and globalization, we’ll seek to understand the relationship between the social construction of race and the production of social and economic inequality. This course pays especially close attention to the ways in which race and ethnicity intersect with gender, sexuality, class, citizenship, and nation in order to better understand how systems of power and inequality are constructed, reinforced, and challenged, and to enhance our comprehension of present-day realities in the U.S. and around the globe.

Our goal in this class is to critically explore the role of land and labor in shaping social, political, and economic relations in the United States. This cannot happen just by memorizing or mastering a series of clear-cut answers; rather, by engaging in lively debate and learning from fellow colleagues, we aim to hone our ability to ask incisive questions while further developing our skills as writers, readers, and critics.

Weekly Topics:
Week 1 – Theories and Concepts / California
Week 2 – California
Weeks 3 & 4 – the Midwest
Weeks 5 & 6 – the South / Southeast
Weeks 7 & 8 – the Southwest
Week 9 – Pacific Rim / Arctic Circle
Week 10 – Northeast

Assigned Reading: A collection of readings (articles and book chapters) is available on electronic reserves. To access the materials, log on to the course reserve system at http://reserve.ucsd.edu/ares/. There are no required books to purchase for this course. You can find more information for accessing e-reserves on the UCSD library website, http://libraries.ucsd.edu/resources/course-reserves/for-students.html.
Grading and Requirements:
Discussion section: 20% (participation, attendance, and anything your TA assigns)
Midterm: 25%
Response papers: 25%
Final: 30%

1) Discussion section: Students are required to attend and participate in discussion section. This is your opportunity to ask questions, explore ideas, and do some creative thinking with your fellow students. You must attend the section for which you have registered and sections will first meet during week 1 (Beginning 9/28, NOT week 0). Discussion grades will depend on your attendance, constructive participation and regular involvement in the weekly discussion section as assigned by your Graduate Teaching Assistant (TA). You are responsible for keeping up with and digesting the reading materials each week so you can express your own critical questions and engage course materials and fully participate in discussion sections. An absence that results from extenuating circumstances may be excused; however, more than one unexcused absence from section will affect your final grade. All excused absences require appropriate documentation presented to your TA.

2) Midterm: Monday, October 26 (Week 5). This in-class exam will require students to define and discuss five key terms drawn from course concepts and themes. A list of twenty possible terms will be made available to students on the Monday prior to the exam (October 19).
There will be no written make-up exams. If a make-up exam is required, this will be an oral exam proctored by Professor Harper.

3) Response papers: These are due every two weeks at the beginning of section. Each student is required to complete five 1-2 page response papers due in discussion sections. Each response paper will count for 5% of your grade. The papers must be typed (double-spaced, 12 pt. Times New Roman) and address key themes, concepts and readings covered in particular classes. Late and/or hand written papers will not be accepted. The first paper is due in discussion section week 2, then week 4, week 6, week 8, and week 10.

As a writing prompt, begin your response paper with a quote from assigned readings, films, or lecture. Use this as a jumping-off point to draw connections between lectures and readings or films, or to elaborate on discussions that have taken place in section.

Another option is to attend an Ethnic Studies event and to write your response paper about this. These events will be announced in lecture, and the paper you submit must follow the same requirements outlined above.

4) Final: Monday, December 7, from 11:30a – 2:30p. The final exam will consist of two parts: 1) a short take-home essay (approximately 3-4 pages in length) in response to a theoretical question generated from course readings; and 2) an in-class exam consisting of five identification terms. Essay prompts will be made available on Monday, November 30. Both components of the exam, each worth 15% of your grade, should be handed in to your TA during the class final on December 7.

Policy on Make-up Assignments: Exams and assignments are due at the start of class/section or as otherwise indicated. In order to receive a passing grade in the class, students must complete all course assignments. Make up or extensions for exams or papers will only be given to students who have a documented exam conflict or serious personal, medical, or family emergency. It is your responsibility to notify your TA and provide documentation for excused absences and conflicts. Quizzes cannot be made up. Talk to me and/or your teaching assistant if you are experiencing difficulties with your assignments. We will follow university policies on issues of Academic Integrity and Misconduct: http://students.ucsd.edu/academics/academicintegrity/defining.html

Classroom Ethics: You have a responsibility to create an environment conducive to learning. This is a professional environment, and each student is expected to treat the ideas, opinions, and work of others with the utmost respect. Derogatory remarks of any kind, intimidation and personal attacks are not acceptable.

Electronic Devices and Laptops: Using your phone and other electronic devices will distract other students. All phones and electronic devices other than laptops must be turned off or silenced during class. Electronic devices must be stowed away in bags or pockets.

Laptops may only be used to take notes. If you choose to use a laptop, you must sit in the designated section of the lecture hall. Anyone using a laptop who is not in this section will be asked to move or to leave class. During quizzes and exams, however, all electronic devices, including laptops, must be turned off and stowed. If you take your electronic device out during a quiz or exam you will automatically fail the assignment.

At your TA's discretion students will be allowed to use laptops to reference course readings in discussion sections. All other electronic devices must be stowed away during class.

Accommodations: We wish to make this course as accessible as possible to students with disabilities or medical conditions that may affect any aspect of course assignments or participation. If you require any specific accommodations, please contact your Graduate Teaching Assistant (TA) and/or me as soon as possible.
Students with disabilities should be sure to register with the Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD) http://disabilities.ucsd.edu/about/index.html. Also, if you prefer to be called by a different name or to be referred to by a different gender than what appears on your enrollment record, please feel free to notify your TA and me.

Majoring or Minoring in Ethnic Studies

Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a social science, non-contiguous, or other college requirement. Often students have taken three or four classes out of interest yet do not realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, education, medicine, public health, social work, counseling, journalism, government and politics, international relations, and many other careers. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor, please contact:

Daisy Rodriguez, Ethnic Studies Department Undergraduate Advisor
