Overview:
This course examines how race has functioned as an organizing principle in the social life of health and disease in the 19th and 20th centuries in the United States and beyond. Beginning with a critical look at scientific and medical “objectivity,” we will trace the ways in which the intersections of race, disease and health have shaped and been shaped by larger social and historical processes, including immigration, settlement, assimilation, labor exploitation, colonialism, imperialism, and globalization. In so doing, we will discuss how particular populations are socially constructed as victims and/or carriers of disease, while others are constructed as “sanitary citizens.” As we cover how race as well as gender, class, sexuality and nation affect both the unequal distribution of diseases and unequal access to medical treatment, we will also consider their human rights and social justice consequences.

*Attendance and participation constitute a significant portion of your grade. Arrive to each class session on time and stay for its duration. Tardiness and absences will be noted and result in the lowering of your grade.
*Active participation means thoughtful engagement in the readings/lectures, meaningful contributions to class discussions, and respectful collegiality toward your classmates and instructor. Visits to my office hours will also count toward class participation.
*As this is a fairly writing-intensive class, I strongly suggest that you see me during my office hours to discuss your drafts and/or visit the Office of Academic Support & Instructional Services (OASIS) for writing support. You can drop by OASIS on the 3rd floor of Center Hall, M-F 8am-4:30pm, or contact them at 858 534-3760 or oasis@ucsd.edu.
*All written work must be typed in 12 pt Times New Roman font with 1-inch margins. For proper essay format and citation guidelines, please refer to the MLA stylebook. Proofread, spell-check, paginate and staple all work before handing in.
*The final exam will consist of both short and long essays. It will focus primarily on the 2nd half of class, but will ask students to integrate concepts and perspectives covered in the 1st half.

Policies:
*All course requirements must be completed by the specified due date and time in order to pass the course and receive a grade. Any one missing assignment will result in a course failure. If you are taking the course P/NP, you must complete all assignments and receive at least a 70% on each.
*Ten points will be deducted from your papers for every 24 hours they are late. In order to receive an extension, you must contact me at least 24 hours PRIOR to the due date and time. NO EXCEPTIONS! In the case of a medical/personal emergency, you must produce a doctor’s note or other documentation in order for an exception to be made.
*Please complete readings by at least Wednesday of the week they are assigned, and bring the text(s) with which we are currently covering to class.
*Turn off phones and refrain from text messaging during class.
