This course introduces students to the study of inequalities in environmental conditions affecting communities of varying racial/ethnic identities and class backgrounds. Our readings and discussions will challenge notions of environmentalism and sustainability that fail to address the role that social identities and structural privileges and disadvantages play in determining what environments particular groups of people live in. We will examine the theories and concepts of the environmental justice movement as well as the critiques of it. We will also study various examples of environmental injustice in the United States and abroad, and the policy and legal debates surrounding these. Last but not least, we will assess the strategies that activists have pursued for challenging environmental injustice locally, nationally, and transnationally. A quick reminder: this is after all an Ethnic Studies class, which means that this is not your traditional Environmental Studies course. Here, we will use the topic of environmental justice as a window for further understanding of how systems of racial/colonial/gender/sexual/class power and inequality are constructed, reinforced, and challenged.

Required Readings:

All other readings for this class will be available for download via our course's blackboard website which can be accessed at http://ted.ucsd.edu.

NOTE: Readings and assignments are subject to change. This syllabus is not a contract, so make sure you stay up to date on any possible changes to the readings or the schedules. If I do make changes, I mention it in class and email you notifying you of these changes

Attendance and Participation

I expect you to attend all class meetings and participate actively. I will take points off for every absence (I only make exceptions if you bring me a valid medical or written excuse). I will also take points off if you don’t participate in class and show me that you're keeping up to date with the reading and the discussion. If you are a shy person and do not feel as comfortable as others speaking in class, please try to make up for this by stopping by my office hours for a chat, which also counts toward participation or by emailing me your questions or observations about the readings or lectures.

Critical Essays (2 of them)

You will have to complete two 5pp. long “critical essays” over the course of the quarter. I will send you writing prompts for these. You can choose to come up with an original argument (as long as you clear it with me at least a week in advance before the paper is due). For paper deadlines, please see the reading schedule below. All paper assignments will be uploaded to Turnitin.com (via our TED Blackboard). That means you don’t have to turn in a paper copy.

Final Project

The final project is due on Friday, June 14 at 2:30 (our designated final exam time) via the TED Blackboard. Please choose one of the following three options:

a. Research paper (7pp. long): This paper should present one case of environmental racism, using lecture materials, course readings, and three outside (academic or activist) sources. Your paper should not only convey the who, what, when, and where of the case, but also how it connects the course themes and theoretical frameworks. In short, this paper should use one case as a window into the larger phenomenon of environmental racism.

b. Creative paper (7pp. long): This paper should explore what you see as the most productive possibilities for achieving an environmentally just future. You will write it as a member of the environmental justice movement; use your imagination! You can take up any number of positions—someone organizing in West Papua for resource sovereignty, a member of an NGO working somewhere outside the U.S., an urban local organizer, a “downwinder,” (i.e., individuals or communities who are exposed to radioactive contamination), a consumer advocate, a student organizer, a social justice lawyer, a journalist, a professor of Environmental Racism, etc., etc. You are welcome to write this as a formal paper or in another style (e.g. in journalistic or narrative form).
c. The view from UCSD project (due: project + 2-3pp. “process essay”): This is a creative project of your choosing that explores themes of environmental racism and injustice from your viewpoint—that is, of a UCSD student. What is the relationship of UCSD as an academic institution to environmental injustice? How can (or how have) UCSD students contested and resisted environmental racism? This project can be poetry, visual art, activist literature (i.e. brochures, web site mock-ups, pamphlets, etc.), political cartoons, activist alert bulletins, journalistic articles or photographic essays, etc. Note: You must also submit a 2-3pp. long essay explaining your project and its significance to the course.

Late Work Policy

All papers will be uploaded to Turnitin.com via our course’s blackboard website (i.e., ted.ucsd.edu). Late submission of assignments will be accepted only in verifiable emergencies, and only by arrangement with me prior to 2:00 p.m. on the due date. Assignments turned in late without prior approval will be graded down 7 points for each 24-hour period past the due date (no exceptions).

Academic Dishonesty

Scholastic dishonesty is any act by a student that misrepresents the student's own academic work or that compromises the academic work of another. Examples include cheating on assignments or exams, unauthorized collaboration on assignments or exams, sabotaging another student’s work and plagiarizing. Plagiarism is presenting someone else’s work as your own, intentionally or not, by failing to put quotation marks around passages taken from a text or failing to properly cite quoted material. The University guideline for penalizing academic misconduct is determined by the professor of the course. Any act of academic dishonesty may result in one’s failing the course.

My Email Policy

Please email me with questions and/or concerns about the course. I will respond within the next 24 hours. If you have an important personal question such as inquiring about a grade or class discussion, please visit me during office hours or schedule an appointment with me.

A Note About Reading Volume

Research indicates that the average U.S. college student reads about 20 pages per hour. As you will notice below, I’ve assigned about 80-100 pages of reading per week (i.e., 4-5 hours of reading per week). Please make sure that you stay on top of the readings.

Majoring or Minoring in Ethnic Studies at UC San Diego

Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a social science, non-contiguous, or other college requirement. Often students have taken three or four classes out of “interest” yet have no information about the major or minor and don’t realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, public policy, government and politics, journalism, education, public health, social work, international relations, and many other careers. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor at UCSD, please contact Daisy Rodriguez, our Ethnic Studies Undergraduate Advisor, at 858-534-3277 or d1rodriguez@ucsd.edu.
