COURSE ORGANIZATION

This course offers a framework for learning about a diversity of cultural world views in different geographical settings and historical contexts. Cultural world view denotes a set of guidelines or socio-cultural ideology that orients a people in relation to their place in existence, encompassing religious, social, and economic ways of knowing and living.

Through narrative, historical, ethnographic, physical, and literary materials, you will gain knowledge about: key aspects of Indigenous world views; Indigenous responses in relation to settler colonialism; and Indigenous frameworks for knowledge production, learning, and decolonization.

COURSE OBLIGATIONS

Course Assignments & Expectations

You are expected to attend class meetings and keep up with the reading assignments.

Course evaluation will be based on:

- Reading questions blog 25%
- Discussion | Interrogation contribution 25%
- Short essay (week 3) 10%
- Midterm assignment (week 5) 15%
- Final Project: submission | presentation 25%

- Lectures will be held live and online through Zoom during scheduled class time. Class will be recorded and made available on Canvas in the Media Gallery shortly after each lecture.

- Blog entries: I will post reading questions online in advance of most class sessions. You will contribute blog entries on CANVAS providing your response to the reading questions and commenting on the reading selections. You will use these questions to prepare for discussion of the readings and underlying themes. Blogs should be completed at least an hour before each class, and you are welcome to read, comment upon and extend the responses of your classmates. Your blog entries will also help you absorb the reading material assigned during the quarter, and to prepare for other assignments. Each blog is worth a maximum of 2 points.

- Online discussions: Participation in discussions held throughout the quarter will count for part of your class grade. There are 3 ways to participate and receive weekly credit:

  1) participate in discussion synchronously during lectures;
• 2) discussion during Office Hours though Zoom;
• 3) turn in an Interrogation Paper.

For the Interrogation Paper option, first do the readings for the week and watch the lecture/discussion videos. You will then write a 250-500 word post due by 5pm Friday on Canvas in which you identify and interrogate a concept or question from the week’s material, citing one short passage from at least 2 readings and at least one moment from the class recordings.

At the end of each week, you will report in a separate blog category how you have earned points for that week (options 1, 2, or 3, above). You may earn a maximum of 2.5 discussion points each week. See “Discussion Ethics” below.

• Short essay: A short essay will be due on Tuesday, April 13. Details will be provided in class.

• Midterm Assignment
You will have group assignments pertaining to your book of choice for both the midterm and the final. You will also write an individual second essay on your book of choice.

For the midterm, you will be responsible for reading one-third/one-half of the book. With the members of your group, you will create a presentation that provides:
1. a short summary of the storyline that you have read so far, including the relationships of the characters to each other and;
2. possible ways of understanding connections between the book and the course content.

Each group will post their presentation to CANVAS and respond to a different group’s presentation. All groups will comment on which themes and connections are similar and different to their presentation and will pose questions and offer critical and constructive suggestions to the presentation authors.

• Final Project:
For the final, you will be responsible for completing the entire book and:

A. An individual essay assignment that explains how the theory, methodology, and content of these course materials can be used to make connections to the book you are reading for the final group project. Your essay will critically evaluate at least two readings and one media assignment.

B. With your assigned group you will add to your Midterm presentation by:
1. providing a short summary of the entire storyline and character relationships to each other;
2. adding and revising connections between the book and the content of the entire course. You will post the group presentation on CANVAS and the group will present it during regularly scheduled final exam time.
I welcome visits during regular Zoom office hours, or by appointment, to discuss any aspect of the class and the assignments.

Academic Honesty
All work submitted in this course must be your own and original. Each student is expected to be familiar with and abide by UCSD’s policy on Integrity of Scholarship, available at: https://academicintegrity.ucsd.edu/process/policy.html

Discussion Ethics
Our study of the California Native History involves challenging commonly held understandings of race, gender, sexuality, nation, and class. Please engage one another in discussion with respect, generosity, and consideration. Abusive or harsh language, personal attacks, intimidation, will not be tolerated. These norms are reflected in the UCSD Principles of Community that we are all expected to follow. For more information about the UCSD Principles of Community, visit: https://ucsd.edu/about/principles.html

Use of Course Materials
My lectures and course materials, including materials that I have created posted on Canvas, are protected by U.S. copyright law and by University policy. I am the exclusive owner of the copyright in those materials I create. You may take notes and make copies of course materials for your own use. You may also share those materials with another student who is enrolled in or auditing this course.

You may not reproduce, distribute or display (post/upload) lecture notes or recordings or course materials in any other way without my express prior written consent. You also may not allow others to do so.

Similarly, you own the copyright in your original papers and exam essays. If I am interested in posting your answers or papers on the course web site, I will ask for your written permission.

Accommodations
If you have a medical condition or different physical or learning needs for which you may need accommodation in order to participate fully and successfully, please speak with me individually so that we can make necessary adjustments. You may also seek assistance or information from the Office for Students with Disabilities: https://disabilities.ucsd.edu/students/typesaccommodations.html
If you prefer to be called by a different name or referred to as a different gender than the one under which you are officially enrolled, please inform me, so that we can adjust accordingly.

<th>Majoring or Minoring in Ethnic Studies</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a college general education requirement. Often students have taken many ETHN courses out of interest, yet do not realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, education, medicine, public health, social work, counseling, public policy, and many other careers. The Native American and Indigenous Studies minor provides an expansive introduction to the histories, lifeways, and cultures of Native American and Indigenous communities in the United States with comparative examples from Indigenous communities across the world. Drawing on course offerings in Ethnic Studies, History, Literature, Oceanography, Physics, Theater and other departments, students gain an understanding of the first peoples of San Diego and the United States. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor, please contact: Monica Rodríguez, Ethnic Studies Department Undergraduate Advisor 858-534-3277 or nmrodriguez@ucsd.edu or visit www.ethnicstudies.ucsd.edu</td>
