COURSE DESCRIPTION
How have racial categories and ideologies been constructed through performance and displays of the body in the United States and other sites? This course considers racial formation through popular performances such as world’s fairs, minstrelsy, film, fashion, and political protests. Nineteenth-century colonial exhibits like museums and ethnographic entertainment contributed to the objectification and commodification of culture. However, we will pay particular attention to how racialized subjects use performance to deconstruct dominant ideologies of racial and cultural difference and engage in forms of social and political mobilization.

Required Texts (available at Groundwork Bookstore, 452-9625, and on reserve at SSH Library)

There are also several reserve readings, available for download through the library’s e-reserves system (http://reserves.ucsd.edu). Each such reading has the notation “*” in the syllabus. NOTE: remote access by proxy instructions: http://blink.ucsd.edu/Blink/External/Topics/Policy/0,1162,24528,00.html

Requirements
1) Reading: Students are expected to complete and comprehend the material by the beginning of class. By this, you are required not only to read the material but to read critically and process it, whether that means taking notes, writing an outline, or reviewing with other classmates. Please bring assigned readings to class. When websites are listed in the syllabus, students should access them before the class meeting.
2) Attendance and Participation: Since the class meets once a week and is discussion-based, attendance is critical and mandatory (see attendance policy below). Quizzes and writing assignments may be given and collected occasionally in class. Film and media shown in class will not be available for re-screening.

3) Writing Assignments: 2 short writing abstracts (Due in class week 3 and week 6)
Performance Paper, 6-8 pages (Topic due week 5; Final paper due in class no later than week 10)

4) Exam:
   Take-Home Final: Due in my box in SSB 201 on Monday, March 16, 3 PM. Late exams will not be graded.

Gradning
Attendance, Participation, Quizzes, and In-Class Assignments and Presentation: 20%
(Merely being present does not mean one automatically receives a passing grade. Moreover, I reward thoughtful and quality participation, not quantity.)
Short Writing Abstracts (2) 15% each (30% total)
Performance Paper (6-8 pp) 20%
Take Home Final Exam: 30%

Course Policies
• Classroom conduct: Please be respectful to other students and the professor. The use of laptops is not allowed in class. Phones and PDAs must be turned off in the classroom. Please do not arrive late or leave early, read unrelated material while in class, or converse about unrelated topics.
• No early or make-up quizzes and examinations will be scheduled, and no incompletes will be given in this course. All assignments must be submitted to receive a final grade.
• Writing assignments are due at the beginning of class and must be submitted as hard copies only; no e-mailed papers accepted. Late papers will receive one-half letter grade deduction for each day they are submitted past the due date, and no papers will be accepted more than one week after the due date. Professor reserves the right to make copies of student papers and assignments.
• After one unexcused absence (absences without a doctor’s note or other documentation), your final grade will be reduced by one half-letter grade (e.g., B- will become a C+). For two unexcused absences, your final grade will go down two half-letter grades, and so on.
• If you have a documented disability and anticipate needing accommodations in this course, please make arrangements to meet with me soon. Please bring a notification letter from the Office for Students with Disabilities outlining your approved accommodations.
• Students are responsible for following all oral and written directions for assignments. Please keep in mind that your grade may be adversely affected for disregarding guidelines. Ask questions if you require clarification.
• Your grade is not an entitlement; it must be earned. Furthermore effort alone will not guarantee a high grade. If you submit careless and mediocre work, you will receive a grade that correlates with your submission. However, continual excellent work will be rewarded.

Academic Honesty Policy
Plagiarism is a serious violation, whether intentional or inadvertent. Easily recognized, plagiarism is insulting to those who take the time to read your work, but an embarrassment to you most of all. All work submitted in this course must be your own and original. You may not copy sentences or paragraphs from books, websites, or any other source. The use of sources such as ideas, quotations, paraphrases, or anything written by someone else must be properly acknowledged and cited. If you have questions about when and how to use citations, please refer to this guide: Charles Lipson, Doing Honest Work in College: How to Prepare Citations, Avoid Plagiarism, and Achieve Real Academic Success. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2004.

Each student is expected to be familiar with UCSD’s Policy on Integrity of Scholarship, available at http://www-senate.ucsd.edu/manual/appendices/app2.htm#AP14.
