There are no passengers on Spaceship Earth. We are all crew.
- Marshall McLuhan

Our ultimate objective in learning about anything is to try to create and develop a more just society.
- Yuri Kochiyama

Grandfather, look at our brokenness. We know that in all creation only the human family has strayed from the sacred way. We know that we are the ones who are divided and we are the ones who must come back together to walk in the sacred way. Grandfather, Sacred One, teach us love, compassion, and honor that we may heal the Earth and each other.
- Art Solomon (Ojibwe), Ojibwe Prayer

COURSE DESCRIPTION
Catalog Description: This course will examine and interrogate the concept of environmental racism, the empirical evidence of its widespread existence, and the efforts by government, residents, workers, and activists to combat it. We will examine those forces that create environmental injustices in order to understand its causes as well as its consequences. Students are expected to learn and apply several concepts and social scientific theories to the course material. Additionally: The primary focus of this course will be on environmental racism within the United States, although we will occasionally draw from international examples and transnational issues of environmental justice. We will consider a variety of forms of environmental justice that includes questions of social structure, public access, open space, indigeneity, food, and media. Students will engage in critical self-reflection narratives, photography, and general research methods in the completion of their creative-critical essays.

★ Please note that ETHN 103 is an upper division Ethnic Studies course. Upper division courses are intended to delve more deeply into specific or specialty subjects not covered in basic introductory-level Ethnic Studies courses. As such, these courses rely upon basic fluency with foundational social science, humanities, and Ethnic Studies concepts usually provided by the completion of the Ethnic Studies 1A-1B-1C series (or an equivalent). This class presumes competence with these core concepts and theories. If you have not completed this series (or an equivalent) you will be at a distinct disadvantage in your ability to excel in this course. Enrolled students should also be aware that this course maintains a rigorous standard of student writing and in-class participation, and requires a heavy reading and writing load. I urge you to consider these notices carefully.
REQUIRED TEXTS
All readings are available as PDF files via your Triton Education (TED) course page (ted.ucsd.edu). Students are required to bring individual hard copies to all appropriate class meetings. YES, YOU MUST PRINT THEM EACH OUT (double-sided printing is encouraged). Note: Mac users may need to download a plug-in to access the PDF materials. Directions are provided on the TED sign-in page. Academic Computing Services (located in Applied Physics & Mathematics 1323 / 858.534.2267) can assist you with continued/other access issues.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS
ATTENDANCE. Attendance scores will be strictly calculated as follows:
2-3 absences: -2 points / 4-5 absences: -3 points / 6-7 absences: -5 points / 8+ absences: -10 points

PARTICIPATION. You are expected not only to attend all class meetings but also to participate actively. [Note: Media covered during scheduled course meetings might not be available on reserve or elsewhere.] I will regularly require in-class writing which counts toward participation. Students will view two out-of-class exhibits in connection with the essay assignments (details to follow).

READING ASSIGNMENTS. Students should complete all readings prior to attending class (each Monday, with noted exceptions). This way you will be able to follow and engage with my lectures, and fully participate in the vital conversations that are the backbone of this course. Unprepared students will be graded down.

MIDTERM EXAM. Students will complete a midterm exam Friday, February 3 (week 4). There will be no make-up exams. Exam structure will include multiple choice questions, identifications/definitions, and short analytical essays. Any additional guidelines will be provided in class.

ESSAY ASSIGNMENTS. Students will write one creative-critical essay (1250-1500 words) that addresses the themes of this course and explicitly draws upon the assigned readings. Due: Friday, February 24 (week 7). You will also complete a final creative-critical essay (2000-2500 words). Due: Wednesday, March 21 (finals week). Details for these assignments will be provided in class.

FORMATTING. All written assignments must be typed, double-spaced, using 1” margins all around, 12-point Times New Roman font, proper paginations, proper heading, and stapled. The critical essays and the final project must include the final word count in the heading. Papers must include a complete and appropriately formatted list of references (course readings used), starting immediately after the final lines of the text. Papers that do not follow this format will not be accepted.

GRADE BREAKDOWN
It is strongly suggested that each student keep track of her/his own progress by recording assignment scores below once graded and returned. Final grades for the course will be calculated as indicated:
HELLA STRICT E-MAIL POLICY
All e-mail correspondence with the instructor must be properly formatted with a useful description in the subject line, a greeting and salutation, and must be grammatically correct; otherwise, the instructor will delete your e-mail message and will choose not to respond.

LATE WORK POLICY
Late work will NOT be accepted. LATE work will not be ACCEPTED. LATE WORK WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED.

NOTE ON ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
Students are responsible for understanding the university’s academic integrity policies and maintaining compliance. Please familiarize yourself with the UCSD Policy on Academic Integrity:

Copying even small portions of essays from the internet or not properly citing your sources falls under the definition of plagiarism. Any act of cheating or plagiarism will result in the student’s immediate failure and referral to the campus Academic Integrity Coordinator for further investigation and assessment. As indicated in the university policies on student conduct, students who cheat or plagiarize “can be suspended or even expelled from the University.” If you have questions, please make an appointment to meet with the instructor or other relevant campus resources.

DISABILITY RESOURCES STATEMENT
Students requesting accommodations and services due to a disability for this course need to provide a current Authorization for Accommodation (AFA) letter issued by the Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD), prior to eligibility for requests. Receipt of AFAs in advance is necessary for appropriate planning for the provision of reasonable accommodations. OSD Academic Liaisons also need to receive current AFA letters. For additional information, contact the Office for Students with Disabilities:

MAJORING OR MINORING IN ETHNIC STUDIES AT UCSD

Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a social science, non-contiguous, or other college requirement. Often students have taken three or four classes out of "interest" yet have no information about the major or minor and don’t realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, public policy, government and politics, journalism, education, public health, social work, international relations, and many other careers. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor at UCSD, please contact YOLANDA ESCAMILLA, Ethnic Studies Department Undergraduate Advisor, at:
