This course explores the intersections of race, space and segregation in settler colonial, historically white privileging societies such as Canada, the United States, Australia, and South Africa. We will begin by exploring the social and institutional forces that created racial and spatial segregation within these various contexts. We will then learn about how racial and colonial “Others” have been historically “produced” concomitant with how spaces are socially constructed as they are segregated through laws, policies, and institutional practices. Course readings will be structured around themes such as: “Race, Space, Segregation and Settler Colonialism,” “The Creation and Adaptation of Racial Apartheids,” “The Enduring Power of the Ghetto,” “(B)ordering as a Force of Segregation,” “Criminal Justice as a Force of Segregation,” “Educational Apartheid in the U.S.,” “The War on Terror: Segregating Spaces of Exception,” and “Segregation and the Making of (Un)natural Disasters.”

Attendance and Participation

I expect you to attend all class meetings and participate actively. I will take points off for every absence (I only make exceptions if you bring me a valid medical or written excuse). I will also take points off if you don’t participate in class and show me that you’re keeping up to date with the reading and the discussion. If you are a shy person and do not feel as comfortable as others speaking in class, please try to make up for this by stopping by my office hours for a chat, which also counts toward participation or by emailing me your questions or observations about the readings or lectures.

Critical Essays (2 of them)

You will have to complete two 5pp. long “critical essays” over the course of the quarter. I will send you writing prompts for these. You can choose to come up with an original argument (as long as you clear it with me at least a week in advance before the paper is due). For paper deadlines, please see weekly schedule below. All paper assignments will be uploaded to Turnitin.com (via our TED Blackboard). That means you don’t have to turn in a paper copy.

Final Project

The final project is due on Wednesday, March 18 at 11:59 pm via the TED Blackboard. Please choose one of the following three options:

1. Research paper (7pp. long): This paper should present one case of an injustice related to race, space and segregation, using lecture materials, course readings, and three outside (academic or activist) sources. Your paper should not only convey the who, what, when, and where of the case, but also how it connects the course themes and theoretical frameworks. In short, this paper should use one case as a window into the larger phenomenon of the “racialization of space/spatialization of race.”

2. Ethnographic paper (7pp. long): An ethnographic study consists of a research project that uses qualitative research methods to provide a detailed, in-depth description of everyday life and practice. Normally, an ethnographer conducts interviews, takes notes of these and/or records them, and both observes whatever she is studying (e.g., a particular case of racial segregation). If you choose this option, you will write a short ethnographic paper on a Like the research paper, it too must have an “angle” or a thesis that guides its analysis (NOTE: I have some good handouts with advice on how to write ethnography papers so if you decide to go down this route, email me and I’ll send them to you).

3. Creative paper (7pp. long): This paper should explore what you see as the most productive possibilities for achieving a future with no segregation based on race. You will write it as a member of a social movement (e.g., anti-racist, feminist, LGBTQ, economic justice, and/or immigrants rights movement). Use your imagination! You can take up any number of positions—someone organizing to dismantle the militarized U.S./Mexico border, a prison abolitionist activist, an Ethnic Studies professor, etc. You are welcome to write this as a formal paper or in another style (e.g. in journalistic or narrative form). In other words, this is fiction applied to this course.

4. Creative Project (due: project + 3pp. “process essay”): Possible formats include video documentaries, “radio documentaries” (ask me what this is), original songs or compositions, a video-recorded spoken word performance, a visual arts project or series, a recorded dance or performance art piece, a photo essay, a comic book, a mock website, any form of graphic design, a presentation of art criticism, a series of t-shirts or fashion, other kinds of material objects of your creation, or pretty much any format that might suit your talents (including mixed media formats that combine these). The “catch” with this option is that you have to clear your ideas with me first by March 11th. Also, you will have to submit a 3 pp. “process essay” that reflects on how your creative project relates to the themes we will be discussing in our class meetings (see instructions for that below). NOTE: songs should be 2-5 min max., dance and performance pieces should be 5-10 minutes, films should be 2-5 min max., photo essays must include at least 10 substantially different photos, analysis of art/art criticism should include at least 5 works you will be comparing, comics should be at least 4 pages (could be four separate flyers or one 4 page story) with all text/dialogue printed out on an additional word document.

Late Work Policy

All papers will be uploaded to Turnitin.com via our course’s blackboard website (i.e., ted.ucsd.edu). Late submission of assignments will be accepted only in verifiable emergencies, and only by arrangement with me prior to 2:00 p.m. on the due date. Assignments turned in late without prior approval will be graded down 7 points for each 24-hour period past the due date (no exceptions).

Academic Dishonesty

Scholastic dishonesty is any act by a student that misrepresents the student’s own academic work or that compromises the academic work of another. Examples include cheating on assignments or exams, unauthorized collaboration on assignments or exams, sabotaging another student’s work and plagiarizing. Plagiarism is presenting someone else's work as your own, intentionally or not, by failing to put quotation marks around passages taken from a text or failing to properly cite quoted material. The University guideline for penalizing academic misconduct is determined by the professor of the course. Any act of academic dishonesty may result in one's failing the course.

My Email Policy

Please email me with questions and/or concerns about the course. I will respond within the next 24 hours. If you have an important personal question such as inquiring about a grade or class discussion, please visit me during office hours or schedule an appointment with me.
A Note About Reading Volume

Research indicates that the average U.S. college student reads about 20 pages per hour. As you will notice below, I've assigned about 80-100 pages of reading per week (i.e., 4-5 hours of reading per week). Please make sure that you stay on top of the readings.

Majoring or Minoring in Ethnic Studies at UC San Diego

Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a social science, non-contiguous, or other college requirement. Often students have taken three or four classes out of “interest” yet have no information about the major or minor and don’t realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, public policy, government and politics, journalism, education, public health, social work, international relations, and many other careers. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor at UCSD, please contact Daisy Rodríguez, our Ethnic Studies Undergraduate Advisor, at 858-534-3277 or d1rodriguez@ucsd.edu.
