Course: ETHN 151: Ethnic Politics in America
Instructor: Dr. Nadeen Kharpoutly
Office hours: Mondays 11:15am-1:15pm and by appointment in Social Sciences Building 252
E-mail: nkharput@ucsd.edu

Any changes to this syllabus will be announced via e-mail.

Course description:
This course will explore the different ways in which ethnicity and culture have been politicized in the last century, with a focus on how immigration has altered the cultural and political landscape of this country. The foods and cultural values that come with newer arrivals and marginalized groups have an indelible effect on the ways that identities and group formations have developed in this country. By focusing our discussions on immigration, food, and cultural appropriation, we will develop a greater understanding of how ethnic relations, identities, and tensions are built into practices of travel, eating, cultural exchange, and cultural representation.

Learning outcomes:
By the end of this class you will be able to:
- Identify central arguments in the texts we read and examine them from multiple angles
- Take and defend a particular position while considering the viability of other positions
- Talk about the issues presented in this class in an academic manner and engage in thoughtful, gracious debate with one another
- Apply the concepts and readings we discuss to everyday examples

Ground rules:
We are discussing complex, difficult, and very necessary topics, and while diversity in opinion is expected and welcome, please be sure to voice your responses generously. This is a space where every student has the opportunity to learn in an open and supportive environment, and in order to maintain this co-operative space I expect everyone in this class to be as open-minded and gracious as possible and respect each person’s individual learning trajectory. Personal attacks and hate speech will not be tolerated. Please review the Principles of Community to ensure that you adhere to the expected guidelines (https://ucsd.edu/about/principles.html)

Class readings:
Bring the readings of the day with you to each class.
You will not be asked to purchase any texts. All required readings – PDFs and links to articles – will be available online on TritonEd.

Class etiquette:
Please devote the 50 minutes of class to listening attentively to everyone in this space. We are covering difficult topics so your full attention is required
Laptops are permitted for referring to the texts and taking notes only. Any distracting behavior – attempting to text discreetly, browsing through social media, etc. - will be cited and disciplined accordingly. Fiddling with technology is rude and distracting (to me and your peers). When you are not taking notes and listening to your peers, please have your laptop screens down.
Communication:
I encourage you to attend office hours whenever you need to talk through ideas and issues, even early on in the quarter.
Please check your e-mail at least once a day to keep up to date with any possible changes to our schedule. Expect responses to your e-mails within 24 hours during the week and 48 hours over the weekend. Courteous correspondence is expected—e-mails must begin with a salutation (“Dear/Hello Dr. Kharputly”) and end with your signature (“Sincerely/Thanks, [your name]”).

Course requirements and percentage of final grade:
Participation and attendance 30%
This includes regular attendance and active participation in class. Your grade relies heavily on participation and attendance, so any absences can quickly take a toll. Please check in with me immediately if you anticipate any difficulties with regular attendance.

Weekly question 20%
You will submit a discussion question on TritonEd relating to the readings of the week so that I can get a sense for what kinds of themes and ideas are most interesting to you and orient our discussion around that. Questions are due by noon on Tuesday of each week.

Final project proposal (due 2/18 by 11:59pm) 10%
A 2-4 page proposal where you discuss what you intend to do for your final project, your chosen topic, who you plan to have your conversation with, what questions you plan to ask them, and a preliminary works cited page to show that your conversation will be rooted in a specific research topic.

Final project (due 3/19 by 11:59pm) 30%
For your final project you will be asked to have a conversation with someone about a topic of your choice (related to this class). Then you will document the nature of this conversation in a 8-12 page paper. More detailed guidelines will be provided ahead of time.

Self-evaluation (due 3/19 by 11:59pm) 10%
At the end of the course, you will be asked to complete a short (500 words) evaluation of your learning outcomes.

Additional information:
The university’s statement on academic integrity must be reviewed before turning in any assignments: http://senate.ucsd.edu/Operating-Procedures/Senate-Manual/Appendices/2. Plagiarism consists of but is not limited to the following: presenting another person’s ideas or language as if they were your own, copying (words AND ideas) from the Internet, and failure to acknowledge and properly cite the sources of the ideas presented. If you are unsure about what constitutes plagiarism, please check in with me ahead of time.

Please let me know as soon as possible if you need accommodation for disability purposes or religious reasons so that we may make alternate arrangements ahead of time. It is best to get accommodation from the Office for Students with Disabilities (located behind Center Hall, 858-534-4382) as soon as possible so that we can work together to ensure that your needs are met in the event of an emergency.

Majoring or minoring in Ethnic Studies:
Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a university or college requirement. Students have taken three or four classes out of interest yet have no information about the major or minor and don’t realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, public policy, education, public health, social work, non-profit work and many other careers. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor at UCSD, please contact Monica Rodriquez, Ethnic Studies Program Advisor, via email at ethnicstudies@ucsd.edu
