COMPARATIVE POLITICS: INSTITUTIONS

Objectives
This seminar surveys the cross-national study of political institutions. It is open to students with a variety of backgrounds but has been designed primarily to help students prepare for the Ph.D. comprehensive examination in comparative politics and for research, including doctoral dissertations, in this field. The course has also been designed to complement POLI 220A: State and Society. Though it covers a wide range of political institutions and organizations, this seminar gives only limited coverage of subjects such as courts, bureaucracies, political development, mass behavior, interest groups, social movements, and public policy. Students preparing for the Ph.D. comprehensive exam should therefore seek other opportunities to study these topics.

The seminar is organized around ten themes:
1. Introduction: Institutions and Institutional Analysis
2. Democracy and Autocracy
3. Federalism, Consociationalism, and Power-sharing
4. Presidentialism and Executives
5. Parliamentary Democracy and Legislatures
6. Coalitions and Coalition Bargaining
7. Elections and Party Systems
8. Party Organization, Clientelism, and Development
9. Bureaucracy, Markets, and Law
10. The Social Consequences of Political Institutions

Format
The seminar will meet Wednesdays 3-5:50 on a weekly basis, except for the first week of the quarter (see below). Each week will introduce a new theme in the comparative study of political institutions and provide a set of required and recommended readings. Required readings will form the basis of the seminar discussions, and all students should read them carefully and critically before class. Recommended readings are supplementary readings of theoretical or empirical importance. If you are preparing for the comprehensive exam, you should gain familiarity at least with those that match your own area of specialization. Many of these readings are also suitable for seminar presentations and literature review papers.

Assignments
As a student in this seminar, you must do the assigned readings, write two discussion papers (6-8 pages in length), participate actively in seminar discussions, and give regular presentations on the readings. Each week, students will be assigned specific readings to review. These presentations (approx. 15 minutes each) should summarize a set of assigned readings and relate them to other relevant literature. The presentations should review and critique the arguments and analysis done in these pieces and comment critically on their assumptions, arguments, research designs, measures, results, and implications. Finally, presentations should raise questions for discussion and future research. When you give presentations, you should prepare a brief outline (electronic or hard copy) for distribution to the other seminar participants. NOTE: Be prepared to discuss all of the required reading, not just your own particular presentation assignments.

The discussion papers will be on your choice among a set of assigned topics. The papers should discuss relevant scholarship and, most importantly, make an argument. The argument should be stated clearly and concisely and guide the rest of the paper. Writing style matters! Be focused and succinct and avoid long quotations. Be sure to provide proper references and to respect the university’s standards of academic integrity. The presentation of the discussion papers will be due on October 27 and the second one on December 8. Grades will be based on course assignments in the following way: discussion papers 40% each, presentations and class participation 20%. Extensions, incompletes, etc. will be given in accordance with UCSD policy. Except under very pressing circumstances, however, I discourage such options.

Readings
This seminar covers a large literature, much of which you may want to have at your disposal, but your purchasing decisions should be guided by your professional judgment as well as by your budget constraint. Therefore, no books have been ordered by the UCSD Bookstore for this course, but I will be happy to provide suggestions.

1. INTRODUCTION: INSTITUTIONS AND INSTITUTIONAL ANALYSIS (Sep 29)

   Note: This meeting will be on Friday, September 29, 12:00-2:00 in SSB 104.

   Required:
   - John M. Carey, “Parchment, Equilibria, and Institutions.” Comparative Political Studies 33, 6-7 (August-September 2000), 735-61.

   Recommended:

2. DEMOCRACY AND AUTOCRACY (October 11)

   Required:
Recommended:

3. FEDERALISM, CONSOCIATIONALISM, AND POWER-SHARING (October 18)

Required:

Recommended:

4. PRESIDENTIALISM AND EXECUTIVES (October 25)

Required:

Recommended:

Donald L. Horowitz, Seymour Martin Lipset, and Juan J. Linz, "Debate--Presidents vs. Parliaments," Journal of Democracy 1, 4 (Fall 1990), 73-91.

Scott Mainwaring, "Presidentialism, Multipartism, and Democracy: The Difficult Combination." Comparative Political Studies 26, 2 (July 1993), 198-228.

5. LEGISLATURES AND PARLIAMENTARY DEMOCRACY (November 1)

Required:

Recommended:

6. COALITIONS AND COALITION BARGAINING (November 8)

Required:

Recommended:

7. ELECTIONS AND PARTY SYSTEMS (November 15)

Required:

Arend Lijphart, Patterns of Democracy, chaps. 5 and 8.

Recommended:

8. PARTY ORGANIZATION, CLIENTELISM, AND DEVELOPMENT (November 22)

Required:

Recommended:

Herbert Kitschelt and Steven I. Wilkinson, eds., *Patrons, Clients, and Politics: Patterns of Democratic

9. BUREAUCRACY, MARKETS, AND LAW (November 29)
Required:

Recommended:
Arend Lijphart, Patterns of Democracy, chap. 13.
10. THE SOCIAL CONSEQUENCES OF POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS (December 6)
Required:

Recommended: