*So, transform yourself first...Because you are young and have dreams and want to do something meaningful, that in itself, makes you our future and our hope.
 Keep expanding your horizon, decolonize your mind, and cross borders.
 - Yuri Kochiyama, Grassroots Civil Rights Activist*

COURSE OVERVIEW

History is not just about dates, facts and figures. It is about how we remember our past, understand our present, and imagine our future. It is imbued in power which determines what is archived, what is excavated, how it will be told and shared. Therefore, to study history necessarily is to study power and knowledge production. The purpose of this course is to critically examine the experiences of Asian/Americans in the post-1965 period. In doing so, we will explore a range of scholarly, literary, and visual texts in order to interrogate how war, (neo)colonialism, and global capitalism have shaped lives of Asian/Americans. This course pays particular attention to the ways in which Asian/Americans have co-existed, negotiated and resisted such structural forces to imagine and practice otherwise.

Key questions this course will address include: When and how do people become “Asian Americans” as racialized, colonized, sexualized and gendered subjects? How did the 1965 Immigration Act affect Asian Americans, families and communities? What kind of diverse issues are Asian Americans faced today? What roles have post-9/11 discourse and ideology played in (re)defining what it means to be Asians in America?

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

ATTENDANCE & PARTICIPATION: Attendance is mandatory. You are expected to attend all lectures and actively participate and contribute to class discussions through an engagement with the readings/lectures. This includes asking questions, seeking clarification and offering your critical ideas and interpretation. You are allowed 1 absence (no question asked). More than 1 absence will result in zero score for participation. Missing 3 classes will result in a failing/no pass grade. 2 late arrivals = 1 absence. Leaving early = 1 absence.

READING ASSIGNMENTS: Unless otherwise indicated, readings are available on TED at <http://ted.ucsd.edu/>. You are required to print and bring the assigned readings to every class. Complete all readings prior to attending class in order to make meaningful contribution to discussion.

GROUP PRESENTATION: A group of 2-3 individuals will lead a discussion on the day's readings. Further directions will be given in class.

WRITING ASSIGNMENTS: You will be required to write one critical essay (5-7 pages) that addresses the themes of this course. Details for this assignment will be provided in Week 2. In addition, you will be required to post a short reflection on TED weekly. Further directions will be given in class.

* Formatting: All writing assignments must be typed, double-spaced, and in MLA format. 1" margins all-around, 12-point Times New Roman font, and stapled.

FINAL PROJECT/PRESENTATION: In lieu of a final exam, students will be asked to create and present their own historical narrative. This assignment can take on any shape/medium (such as video documentary, painting/drawing series, poem, letter and performance), using yourself or another individual (who is Asian American) as the main character. You will write a critical reflection on the project. Further directions will be given in class.

Final Presentation: August 1

Majoring or Minor in Ethnic Studies at UCSD

Many students take an Ethnic Studies course because the topic is of great interest or because of a need to fulfill a social science, non-contiguous, or other college requirement. Often students have taken three or four classes out of interest yet do not realize how close they are to a major, a minor, or even a double major. An Ethnic Studies major is excellent preparation for a career in law, education, medicine, public health, social work, counseling, journalism, government and politics, international relations, and many other careers. If you would like information about the Ethnic Studies major or minor, please contact:

Daisy Rodriguez, Ethnic Studies Department Undergraduate Advisor
 858-534-3277 or d1rodriguez@ucsd.edu or visit www.ethnicstudies.ucsd.edu

Student Consent for Release of Student Information

I hereby authorize the UCSD Ethnic Studies Department to return my graded final examination/research paper by placing the examination/research paper in a location accessible to all students in the course. I understand that the return of my examination/research paper as described above may result in the disclosure of personally identifiable information, that is not public information as defined in UCSD PPM 160-2, and I hereby consent to the disclosure of such information.
