Note: minor changes (especially given still unpublished, new research on parties in the 2012-2014 elections) may be made to this syllabus throughout the quarter. You are responsible for any changes mentioned in class, even if you are absent. They will be posted on the class Ted page.

Graders: David Searle

This class will focus on the role of political parties as intermediaries of choice in modern democratic societies. Although a discussion of party government cannot take place in the absence of cross-national comparisons, this class will concentrate on the development of party in the U.S. as one example of a particular variant of modern party politics. Many of the comparisons made in this class will be historical. We can better understand where we are if we know where we have been. A special emphasis will also be placed on the changing (or perhaps not changing) role of third parties, their modern surrogates, in that historical progression.

We will spend a great deal of time in the second half of this course studying the major environmental and procedural changes that have transformed (and continue to transform) the American partisan universe into its present, complicated, and increasingly polarized state. We will discuss the transformation of campaigning, nominating, and financing elections, and the role of parties (national and state) in that transformation. The student should leave this section with an understanding that: (1) rules and reforms are never neutral; (2) no one is ever quite sure what the results of reform will be; (3) no reform is perfect because politics does not operate within a perfect universe; and (4) individual political behavior both dictates and is constrained by changes in the political environment, including court decisions, new media venue, etc. The major thematic focus of this section is to study a seeming paradox in our political development: as we have democratized partisan processes, we may have produced less satisfactory and representative outcomes--yet we continue to ask for further democratic reform. Go figure!

REQUIREMENTS:

A. Attendance--in both body and mind.

B. Readings--should be completed before class discussion (a prerequisite for the second condition in A). A tentative schedule of readings begins on the back of this handout. I'll mention the readings required each day as the lectures progress.

2. A course reader will be available for purchase from University Readers the first week of class (Order online at http://www.universityreaders.com/students -- the first few selections (20-30%) will be available through an online link if the reader is not yet available for purchase).

3. In addition, to reduce costs, several other essays of various lengths will be required and will be available online either for free or through the UCSD library server (access on campus or at home through a proxy server or VPN connection). Directions for different platforms/operating systems can be found at http://blink.ucsd.edu/Blink/External/Topics/Policy/0,1162,24528,00.html.
C. Exams—One take-home midterm and one in-class final are scheduled for this course, each consisting of a choice of short and (for the final) long essays (I’ll explain how that works later). All will be designed to test your ability to think about, integrate, and logically organize the course readings and lectures. The midterm (take home) is scheduled to be turned in Friday, July 18, through the “Turnitin” Ted link for this class. The questions will be distributed by Friday, July 11 (Ted). The final (in-class) will be administered August 1. A list of possible exam questions will be distributed by July 24.

(Please note: any requests to review exam grades must be made in writing (typed) with a full and detailed justification for the request.)

D. Reading Guides—after the first week, I will post a series of suggestions about what you should gain from the readings. These are not meant to be all inclusive, but (I hope) might prompt you to read before the night before the exams are due. I find that students gain much more from my lectures if they do the readings in advance of the corresponding lecture.

GRADING: You will receive the higher of the two scores that follow this breakdown

CLASS WEB PAGE

Changes to this syllabus, as well as any review guides, assignments, informational emails, or date changes will be posted on the class web page (Ted). Please check it on a daily basis. Go to ted.ucsd.edu. Your classes should be listed. If you are having trouble getting into Ted (students visiting from other campuses are especially vulnerable to this problem), please let me know as soon as possible.

OSD ACCOMMODATIONS:

Students requesting accommodations for this course due to a disability must provide a current Authorization for Accommodation (AFA) letter issued by the Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD) which is located in University Center 202 behind Center Hall. Students are required to present their AFA letters to Faculty (please make arrangements to contact me privately) and to the OSD Liaison in the department in advance so that accommodations may be arranged.

POLICY ON CHEATING:

Failure—no exceptions. “Cheating” includes working together on the midterm or final exam questions. You can help each other with general questions about basic concepts, facts, readings, lectures, citation style, etc. In fact, I strongly suggest you do so on a regular basis. On the other hand, collaborating on the essays themselves, either in preparation or final production, is strictly forbidden. If you are not sure about the distinction, please ask me to clarify. Further information on violations of university academic integrity codes can be found at:

http://students.ucsd.edu/academics/academic-integrity/consequences.html

PLAGIARISM:

Plagiarism is the intentional use of another’s words (by direct transcription) or ideas (by paraphrasing) without attribution. University prohibitions against plagiarism are rather clear. Again, if you are not sure about the meaning of plagiarism, please ask me to clarify or go to the link above.

INCOMPLETES

The university grants me precious little discretion here. In order to qualify for an incomplete I must demonstrate that you have been doing passable work (so you have to have taken the midterm and passed it) and you must demonstrate a reason for requesting an incomplete that conforms to university guidelines (documented illness, death or emergency in the family, unexpected military deployment, etc.). Again, the university makes this decision—not me nor the grader.
TENTATIVE OUTLINE OF READINGS: Available in your University Reader unless marked ‘Aldrich’ by an *. The latter can be accessed directly (“free online at”) or on campus or at home through a VPN or proxy server. If on campus, make sure you are connected via the secured, not guest wireless connections. Please let me know if you have trouble with the urls as they sometimes change. Note: for essays (these are short and uncomplicated) from the Forum, enter the link, then click on:

WEEK 1  A. INTRODUCTION--PARTIES AS INTERMEDIARIES OF PUBLIC CHOICE:

John Aldrich, Why Parties? Chapters 1-2

B. PARTIES AND PARTY SYSTEMS--TYPOLOGIES

Alan Ware (1996), “Why party systems differ” (Political Parties and Party Systems)
Paul Herrnson (2002), “Two-party dominance and minor party forays in American politics” (Herrnson and Green, eds., Multiparty Politics in America, 2nd ed.)

WEEK 2.1 THE CHANGING NATURE OF PARTISANSHIP IN THE U.S.

A. THE DECLINE (?) OF PARTISANSHIP (the Forum essays are rather short)

* William Mayer (2012), “The disappearing—but still important—swing voter” (the Forum, v.10.3: article 2)
* Magleby and Nelson (2012), “Independent leaners as policy partisans” (the Forum, v.10.3: article 6)
* Norpoth and Yemel, (2012), “Independent leaners: ideals, myths, and reality” (the Forum, v.10.3: article 7)

WEEK 2.2 REALIGNMENT (additions/subtractions in the online readings may be made)

MIDTERM
PART, THE SECOND: CHANGE IN U.S. PARTY SYSTEMS AND ORGANIZATION
(additions/subtractions in the online readings may be made)

WEEK 3.1. THE CHANGING NATURE OF DEMOCRACY AND PARTY GOVERNMENT IN THE U.S

A. OVERVIEW (expect some overlap with sections B and C)

Aldrich, Parts 2-4

WEEK 3.2.4.1

B. BACKGROUND: The Polarization of party politics (more will be added)

Kenneth Lowande and Sidney Milkis (2014), “We Can’t Wait”: Barack Obama, partisan polarization and the administrative presidency” (the Forum, v12.1: article 1)

C. NOMINATION REFORM (?)

*One or two more to be added from recent literature

WEEK 4.2 D. CAMPAIGN FINANCE REFORM (?)

Raymond La Raja (2009), “Back to the future”

*Other, post Citizens United readings may be announced. I suggest everyone look through the following resource for information on the 2008-2014 elections: http://www.opensecrets.org. Type “political party” into the search field to start.

WEEK 5.1 E. GERRYMANDERING AS PARTISAN ACT and other forms of POLITICS BY OTHER MEANS

Charles Bullock (2010), "Partisan Gerrymandering: All’s Fair in Love, War, and Redistricting (Bullock, Redistricting, Ch. 5)

*potential readings to be announced tied in with the most redistricting plans, polarization of Congress, use of the filibuster, etc.

CONCLUSION: PARTIES AND THE 2012-2014 ELECTIONS
