Introduction

The period since 1945 has witnessed the rapid development and spread of international organizations at the global and regional level covering a huge range of mandates including conflict and security, human rights, the economy and trade, health and the environment. Yet while there has been a seemingly inexhaustible appetite for the creation of ever more international organizations covering more areas of political life, there is also widespread criticism surrounding their performance and effectiveness. This course is designed to provide students with an opportunity to better understand the nature and purpose of international organizations and to critically evaluate their contribution to good global governance and international order.

Successful completion of this course will facilitate:

- A critical appreciation of the development of international organizations since 1945.
- An overview of a range of key contemporary challenges in international politics and critical appreciation of the contribution international organizations are making in addressing them.

Delivery Method

I will begin each session with a slide presentation which I will record and upload to the course website. The remainder of the session will be taken up with discussion of the presentation and the recommended reading which I will post on the course website and will expect you to have read in advance of the session. While attendance at the sessions is not compulsory, you will benefit from the discussions when writing the critical reading reviews. The anticipated private study time commitment for this course is 6-12 hours per week.

Course Assessment

Academic performance is assessed through three 1000-word critical reading reviews. There will be no extensions. Anyone failing to submit a minimum of two reviews by the end of week 4 (deadline 3) will not have the opportunity to submit more than one review in week 5 (deadline 4) and will probably fail the course unless there are grounds for an Incomplete request.

- Deadline 1 (covering sessions 2-4) Sunday 16 July 2023
- Deadline 2 (covering sessions 5-6) Sunday 23 July 2023
- Deadline 3 (covering sessions 7-8) Sunday 30 July 2023
- Deadline 4 (covering session 9) Friday 4 August 2023

You may if you wish submit four critical reading reviews with the three best marks counting towards the final grade.

You will be expected to identify the central argument being made in the article and to engage in a critical manner i.e. evaluate the intellectual approach and the evidence-base of the argument, and set out areas where you agree and disagree with the author (explaining the reasoning behind your thinking), and should link the review to the wider issues discussed in the session for which the key reading was set. The objective of this assessment is to grade your ability to critically engage with a piece of academic writing and to present an objective evaluation of its strengths and weaknesses. In other words, you are not being invited to simply set out what you think but to engage with another scholar's ideas.

I will discuss my expectations for the critical reading reviews in class. If you require further information, you are strongly recommended to speak with me and/or the teaching assistant. Keep in mind that the general objective is to grade critical engagement. In other words, do the reading, listen to the lectures, ask questions, decide what you think and communicate your thoughts and ideas clearly.

I use the following grading scale when recording grades.

A+ (98%)	4.0	B+ (88%)	3.3	C+ (78%)	2.3	D (65%)	1.0
A (95%)	4.0	B (85%)	3.0	C (75%)	2.0	F (0-55%)	0.0

A- (92%) 3.7 B- (82%) 2.7 C- (72%) 1.7

If you are struggling to submit work by the required deadlines, please speak with me as soon as possible so that we can discuss what support is required.

You are expected to maintain high standards of academic integrity at all times. In other words, your work must be your own. Instances of plagiarism, cheating or other dishonest practice will be referred to the Departmental Office with a request that disciplinary action be taken against you. It is your responsibility to acquaint yourself with the University regulations on academic integrity and further information is available below.

General Learning Resources

There is no textbook for this course. I will however provide recommended reading and other materials for each class via the Canvas website. For those of you who are interested, I would suggest making use of the following publications as they provide a useful general overview on international organizations and global governance:

- International Organizations: Politics, Law, Practice 4th Edition, Ian Hurd, Cambridge: University Press 2021.

- International Organisations and Global Problems: Theories and Explanations, Susan Park, Cambridge: University Press, 2018.

Academic Support

Should you require academic support, please contact me by email and I will respond as soon as possible. I am happy too to make time available for individual Zoom consultations where there is a need. Please remember though I am in the UK and there is a significant time difference, and keep in mind that I am a visiting lecturer and will not always be aware of the specific rules and regulations in operation at UCSD. There may therefore be situations where it would be more appropriate to contact the Undergraduate Student Affairs Advisor.

Academic Accommodations and the Office for Students with Disabilities

Students requesting accommodations for this course due to a disability must provide a current Authorization for Accommodation (AFA) letter issued by the Office for Students with Disabilities (<https://osd.ucsd.edu/>). Students are required to discuss accommodation arrangements with instructors and OSD liaisons in the department well in advance of any exams or assignments. The OSD Liaison for the Department of Political Science is Joanna Peralta; please connect with her via the Virtual Advising Center as soon as possible.

Academic Advising

Students who have academic advising questions related to the Political Science major, should contact the department's Undergraduate Advisor, Natalie Ikker, via the Virtual Advising Center. Academic advising questions often include (but are not limited to): add/drop deadlines, course enrollment policies, planning major and minor requirements, quarter-by-quarter plans, department petitions and paperwork, and referrals to campus and student support services.
