Course Description: The term Holocaust refers to the deliberate and systematic attempt to annihilate the Jewish people by the National Socialist German State during World War II, consequently murdering six million Jews in Europe. The Holocaust is one of two central events in modern Judaism, along with the establishment of the State of Israel, and one of the main events in world history. The purpose of this course is to provide a historical account, a psychological analysis and an occasion for philosophical contemplation about the Holocaust.

Aim: We will learn about the victims and their vulnerability, the murderers and their "motives", and how the death machinery functioned while the world kept silent and only a few took rescue actions. We will analyze and reflect upon these varieties of factual information in an effort to build some level of understanding and gather deeper insight on what is often called the biggest crime in history.

Method: We will address primary sources and written accounts, watch photographic and documentary film and listen to personal survivors' testimonies and to the analysis of a professional psychologist who survived the camps. The class will be organized around the examination of class readings and student participation. Even though this is a large class, your participation is welcome. The student's major responsibility will be to keep up with the reading assignments (imperative!!! We will not recite the textbooks in class but go beyond them) and to come to class ready to raise questions and discuss the issues.

Administration: I will occasionally communicate with the class through email. Studentlink uses your UCSD email account. Please do not ask me to use an alternative email address for you. I am unable to alter the Studentlink listserve that distributes email to this class. If you want to file a different email address with the university, that is your choice. All practical and administrative questions and concerns regarding the class, exams, papers or course materials, should be directed to the Teaching Assistants by email or in office hours. If I can be of help afterwards, or for discussion of other substantive matters, please feel free to contact me. Needless to say my office hours are for your benefit, and I encourage you to use them.
