POLI 120I: THE POLITICS OF ITALY

Course Objectives: This course is designed to expose students to the modern Italian political process, focusing primarily on the time period from Italian unification (Risorgimento) to the present. The course will investigate the process of unification and the roots of the “Southern Question”, the rise and fall of fascism, the institutional and party system attributes of the First and Second Republics, Tangentopoli, the role that Silvio Berlusconi has played in shaping the Second Republic, and the effects of non-state actors (such as the Mafia) in shaping Italian governance.

Course Assignments/Grading:

Midterm Examination: 50%
Final Examination: 50%

Participation: Students are expected to attend lecture having completed the assigned reading and able to participate in course discussions. We will also be discussing current events within the Italian system during lecture, subsequently; students that follow current events will be in a strong position to participate in these discussions. Current events analysis will occur at the beginning of each lecture, so students are strongly encouraged to be on time and ready to participate. The following is a list of new websites that may be of use. You may wish to sign up for e-mail alerts from your favorite websites. Information on setting up e-mail alerts will be discussed in class. The list is not exhaustive:

- Economist Online (http://www.economist.com)
- BBC News (http://news.bbc.co.uk)
- Financial Times (http://www.ft.com)
- Corriere della Sera English (http://www.corriere.it/english/)
- La Stampa English (http://www.lastampa.it/esteri/lastampa-in-english)

Course Papers: Course examinations will be 5-7 pages in length. Materials relating to format of the both examinations will be placed on the course website and will also be discussed in class.
Late Assignments: Barring documented emergencies, no late assignments will be accepted. Additionally, a hard copy of each paper is required; e-mail attachments will not be accepted.

Academic Integrity: While issues of plagiarism are not expected, course assignments are to be completed on an individual basis. Incidents of plagiarism will be dealt with according to department and university procedures. Please be advised that under no circumstances will students received credit for any assignment deemed to be in conflict with the university’s policies on academic integrity.

Reading Schedule: Students should attend lecture prepared to actively discuss the course readings. Course participation grades are, in part, determined by familiarity with the course readings. Course examinations will draw heavily from course readings and lecture material. Please keep this in mind while planning for the session. A handout containing strategies for tackling academic readings can be found on the course website.
