Materials:

- None required.
- During most class sessions we will access resources online, so please bring a tablet or laptop if you can. If you don't have one that is alright because we are often working in groups of 3-4, if one person has a device that is sufficient.

Course overview

This course deals broadly with learning and teaching of biology in the college classroom. Weekly seminars include interactive discussions on the science of learning and evidence of effective and inclusive teaching. We will explore issues such as constructivist learning and equity and inclusion as they apply to biology education. This course also involves participation in apprentice teaching under mentorship of faculty.

Because the modality of our teaching varies, we will spend time each week discussing some concepts of teaching and learning, and then how they can apply to our individual teaching contexts.

Learning goals for this course:

- Recognize the value of diverse learning communities and how they influence student learning
- Apply strategies to establish learning communities comprising diverse groups of learners
- Engage in evidence-based teaching practices and explain how they can promote an inclusive classroom
- Reflect on our teaching practices and draw upon our own learning community to enhance our understanding of teaching and learning and our teaching practices

In addition to apprentice teaching, BISP 195 is organized around weekly seminars. We will engage in interactive activities to explore issues in biology education while simultaneously learn different methodologies of teaching. We will also strive to develop a deeper understanding of learning and teaching. Everyone plays a critical role in learning from one another's knowledge and experiences.

Course Requirements

1. Apprentice teaching: A majority of the activities in BISP 195 is apprentice teaching. This involves collaborating and working with faculty and fellow instructional assistants in helping students learn and succeed in courses. Specific responsibilities will vary in individual courses.
2. Class contributions: Active contribution is essential because many ideas that will be developed during discussions cannot be easily captured by make-up assignments. Contribution is different from attendance or participation. Attendance means being physically present. Participation means having completed the required activities. Contribution involves attendance, participation, and active mental engagement that ultimately results in learning. We are expected to contribute fully in our interactive activities, which include active listening and respectful conversations. As part of our mutual responsibility, we will begin promptly each week. You are expected to actively contribute to one session per week during weeks 1-5 of the quarter.
3. Weekly reflections: The end of week reflection will focus on what teaching practices you implemented in your discussion in the preceding week, how the section went, and how you might improve in the future, and end of week reflections are on Canvas. Please check the Canvas site for due dates and add them to your calendar.

Grading

This course employs a mastery performance framework whereby course requirements are scored as target or unacceptable. Feedback can be requested for all work for improvement and learning. Final grades will be based on the following guidelines:

P (Pass) = Target or satisfactory performance on all of the following:

- 1) Satisfactory apprentice teaching
- 2) Active engagement in all weekly seminars (weeks 1-5)
- 3) On-time and target-level completion of all assigned reflections

NP (No Pass) = Failure to complete any one of the criteria listed above

In general, I am unable to accept late or missing work or provide a make-up for a missed weekly seminar. However, I acknowledge that emergencies do occur. If you have a illness or serious emergency, please contact me as soon as possible or reasonable to do so (please note that documentation may be requested). We are here to help you be successful!

 Please note that non-emergencies will not be granted exceptions, and could result in a failing grade.

Principles of community | Website: <https://ucsd.edu/about/principles.html>

Our campus is dedicated to learning, teaching, and serving society through education, research, and public service. Our international reputation for excellence is due in large part to the cooperative and entrepreneurial nature of the UC San Diego community. Faculty, staff, and students are encouraged to be creative and are rewarded for individual as well as collaborative achievements.

To foster the best possible working and learning environment, we strive to maintain a climate of fairness, cooperation, and professionalism. These principles of community are vital to the success of the University and the well-being of its constituents. Faculty, staff, and students are expected to practice these basic principles as individuals and in groups.

ACCESSIBILITY

<http://disabilities.ucsd.edu> | osd@ucsd.edu | 858-534-4382

Any student with a disability is welcome to contact us early in the quarter to work out reasonable accommodations to support their success in this course. Students requesting accommodations for this course due to a disability must provide a current Authorization for Accommodation (AFA) letter issued by the Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD). Students are required to present their AFA letters to faculty and to the OSD Liaison in the Division of Biological Sciences in advance so that accommodations may be arranged. Whenever possible, we will use universal designs that are inclusive. If you have feedback on how to make the class more accessible, please get in touch!

INCLUSION

It is my goal to create a learning environment that supports diversity of thought, perspective, experience, and identities. I encourage all of you to participate in discussion and contribute to the field from your perspective. If you have feedback on how to make the class more inclusive, please get in touch!

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

<https://students.ucsd.edu/academics/academic-integrity/index.html> | aio@ucsd.edu | 858-822-2163

Integrity of scholarship is essential for an academic community. The university expects that both students and faculty will honor this principle and in so doing protect the validity of intellectual work. For students, this means that all academic work will be done by the individual(s) to whom it is assigned, without unauthorized aid of any kind. In our course, we need to establish a set of shared values.

Following are values adopted* from the International Center for Academic Integrity (<http://www.academicintegrity.org/icaei/home.php>), which are open to discussion and possible alteration. These values include: honesty, responsibility, respect, fairness, and trustworthiness.

	As students we will.....	As the teaching team we will.....
Honesty	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Honestly demonstrate your knowledge and abilities according to expectations listed in the syllabus or in relation to specific assignments and exams Communicate openly without using deception, including citing appropriate sources 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Give you honest feedback on your demonstration of knowledge and abilities on assignments and exams Communicate openly and honestly about the expectations and standards of the course through the syllabus and in relation to assignments and exams
Responsibility	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Complete assignments on time and in full preparation for class Show up to class on time and be mentally and physically present Participate fully and contribute to team learning and activities 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Give you timely feedback on your assignments and exams Show up to class on time and be mentally and physically present Create relevant assessments and class activities
Respect	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Speak openly with one another while respecting diverse viewpoints and perspectives Provide sufficient space for others to voice their ideas 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Respect your perspectives even while we challenge you to think more deeply and critically Help facilitate respectful exchange of ideas

Fairness	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contribute fully and equally to collaborative work, so that we are not freeloading off of others on our teams • Not seek unfair advantage over fellow students in the course 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Create fair assignments and exams and grade them in a fair and timely manner • Treat all students and collaborative teams equally
Trustworthiness	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Not engage in personal affairs while on class time • Be open and transparent about what we are doing in class • Not distribute course materials to others in an unauthorized fashion 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be available to all students when we say we will be • Follow through on our promises • Not modify the expectations or standards without communicating with everyone in the course
Courage	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Say or do something when we see actions that undermine any of the above values • Accept the consequences of upholding and protecting the above values 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Say or do something when we see actions that undermine any of the above values • Accept the consequences of upholding and protecting the above values

All course materials are the property of the instructor, the course, and the University of California, San Diego and may not be posted online, submitted to private or public repositories, or distributed to unauthorized people outside of the course. Any suspected instances of a breach of academic integrity will be reported to the Academic Integrity Office.

DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT

The University of California, in accordance with applicable federal and state laws and university policies, does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy (including pregnancy, childbirth, and medical conditions related to pregnancy or childbirth), physical or mental disability, medical condition, genetic information, ancestry, marital status, age, sexual orientation, citizenship, or service in the uniformed services (including membership, application for membership, performance of service, application for service, or obligation for service in the uniformed services). The university also prohibits harassment based on these protected categories, including sexual harassment, as well as sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking. The nondiscrimination policy covers admission, access, and treatment in university programs and activities.

If students have questions about student-related nondiscrimination policies or concerns about possible discrimination or harassment, they should contact the Office for the Prevention of Harassment & Discrimination (OPHD) at (858) 534-8298, <https://ophd.ucsd.edu/>, or <http://ophd.ucsd.edu/report-bias/index.html>

Campus policies provide for a prompt and effective response to student complaints. This response may include alternative resolution procedures or formal investigation. Students will be informed about complaint resolution options. A student who chooses not to report may still contact CARE at the Sexual Assault Resource Center for more information, emotional support, individual and group counseling, and/or assistance with obtaining a medical exam. For off-campus support services, a student may contact the Center for Community Solutions. Other confidential resources on campus include Counseling and Psychological Services, Office of the Ombuds, and Student Health Services.
