For many Koreans, the twentieth century was experienced as an especially turbulent path of becoming “modern.” This journey included the cross-cutting experiences of imperialism/colonialism, ethno-nationalism, hetero-patriarchy, national division, and authoritarian development under the Cold War system. HIEA 153 investigates these cultural and social structures, many of which continue well into the twenty first century. We will also explore individual and collective engagements with these systems of power to demonstrate contentious interactions between individuals and society. To examine domination and defiance during Korea’s twentieth century, HIEA 153 asks students to compare academic narratives of the past to filmic representations. In this discussion-oriented class, students will practice the skills of active/engaged learning by posing informed questions about historical narratives and by seeking persuasive answers from their peers. Written assignments will advance these learning goals, allowing students to explore their own thinking and lines of analysis.

Readings and Films

Written texts can be accessed as PDFs on TritonEd. Films have been digitized and can be viewed online through course reserves [Note: if you are not using the “UCSD Protected” network, you must logon by VPN; to download VPN, see: http://blink.ucsd.edu/technology/network/connections/off-campus/VPN/index.html]. If you have problems accessing any course materials, please notify the instructor as soon as possible. You will also need an I-Clicker, which should be brought to each class.
Class Expectations

This course revolves around the analytical comparison of textual and filmic narratives as they relate to society and culture in twentieth-century Korea. About half of class preparation involves the mandatory viewing of eight films during the quarter. On four of these films, you are required to write analyses not to exceed 750 words (for details, see “Writing Film Analyses”). To encourage improvement through revision, two of your four required responses are eligible for re-grading after a rewrite. Once during the quarter, you will also be expected to meet in person (not over email, skype, etc.) with a small group of classmates to devise three to four discussion questions which, after instructor moderation, will be used as the basis of class discussions [These questions, which stand in lieu of a film analysis, should be sent along with participant names to the instructor via email (tahenry@ucsd.edu) by 8 PM on the day before film discussions]. To prepare for film responses and discussions, one day a week will be devoted to a background lecture, for which you will be expected to read and reflect upon approximately 30 pages of written text(s). You must bring all assigned online readings to class – preferably, as marked printouts, or as PDFs on your laptop or a tablet/pad on which you can easily view them [note: no cell phone reading or use of electronic devices for non-class related tasks]. Be ready to make active use of these texts in class discussions, as part of your grade is comprised of regular I-clicker “thesis quizzes” (on items marked with * below; correct answer) and “film responses” (on items marked with + below; no correct answer). Major evaluations of your historical knowledge and writing skills will be assessed through a midterm essay and a take-home final, assignments that build on shorter film analyses and discussion questions.

Unless otherwise authorized (i.e., for midterm essay and discussion questions), all assignments are to be printed out and submitted in class. Plagiarism is a serious offense and will be treated as such. Students found guilty of plagiarism will receive a failing grade for the assignment at hand. As the History Department’s statement on plagiarism explains, the “most obvious form of plagiarism is the verbatim copying of words, sentences, paragraphs or entire sections or chapter without quotation and proper attribution… You must use quotation marks even if you only borrow several words in sequence from a source.” All students should read the History Department’s statement on plagiarism: http://history.ucsd.edu/ugrad/academic-integrity.html. If you are unclear about any aspect, you should ask the instructor for clarification before completing assignments.
