Introduction

This class seeks to answer a fundamental question for liberal democracies in an age of globalization: how do societies manage, and respond to, old and new forms of diversity? Multiculturalism is a body of thought about how States respond to diversity. This class will introduce students to this body of thought, its main critiques, and its applications in the real world. It offers a theoretical and empirical overview, asking not just how States should respond, but how and why they do respond and what implications such responses have. We will go back and forth between theoretical approaches to multiculturalism, empirical analyses of what works and what doesn’t work, and discussions of contemporary cases and debates.
Requirements
Your grade will be based on an in-class midterm (30%), a final paper (40%), survey participation (10%), iClicker participation (10%), and participation in the March 9 Syrian refugee workshop (10%).

- Midterm (30%): The midterm will be held in class on February 5. It will be closed-book, closed-note. You will not need a blue book. It will consist of multiple-choice questions and identification (short-answer) questions. It will cover all material from lectures and readings.

- Final (40%): The final paper will be due by email to the instructor and TAs by Monday, March 19 at 5pm. The prompt and instructions for the final will be provided to students on Monday, January 22nd.

- Surveys (10%): Throughout the quarter, you will be asked to take two surveys, the first due on January 26 by midnight (Week 3), the second due on March 12 by noon (Week 10). These surveys will be online (you will receive the link in your email 2 days before it is due), relatively short (15-20 minutes in length) and your responses will be entirely anonymous. You are not required to take the surveys. If you prefer not to, you can opt to write a 5pp. response paper instead. Email me by January 19 at 5pm if you opt for the response paper option, and I will email you the assignment details. If I do not hear from you by then, I will assume you will be taking the surveys. If you are less than 18 years of age, you must write the response paper and cannot take the survey (due to Human Subjects Protection purposes). You will get the full credit for this assignment as long as you take the two surveys by their deadline (or, if you opted for the response paper, as long as you complete the response paper assignment). In Week 10, I will present to you some of the things we can learn from these surveys. Again, all answers will be anonymous.

- iClicker (10%): A large lecture class need not be boring; iClicker and peer-learning have proven effective in keeping students engaged and helping them learn. I will be asking regular iClicker questions, beginning Week 2. You will get full credit merely by participating. I will not count the lowest 20% of your iClicker grades to allow you to miss lecture when you have an inevitable scheduling conflict. However, I do expect you to attend lecture and be active. You will get significantly more out of the class if you do.

- Syrian refugee workshop (10%): On March 9, we will conduct an in-class workshop exploring attitudes toward the US Syrian refugee crisis and policy response. All students are expected to be in class that day and to participate. Attendance will be taken. There is no make-up option for this portion of your grade.
Format
The class meets as a lecture three times a week for the ten weeks of the quarter. Your attendance is strongly encouraged. You are expected to complete the readings for the day before coming to class. All readings are available at: http://pscourses.ucsd.edu/ps108/

Course Policies
- The use of laptops, cell phones, tablets, or any other type of electronic device is prohibited during class time. Research shows that you learn more and distract others (including me) less if you stick to good old pen and paper: https://www.brookings.edu/research/for-better-learning-in-college-lectures-lay-down-the-laptop-and-pick-up-a-pen/

- If you have a disability that requires special accommodations, please come see me as soon as possible and present your certification to me and to Natalie Ikker (nbikker@ucsd.edu).

- Make-up exams will be given only under extraordinary circumstances, and not without proper written documentation justifying your absence (i.e., a doctor’s note) and submitted to the instructor at least one week in advance.

- Please consult http://senate.ucsd.edu/Operating-Procedures/Senate-Manual/Appendices/2 for UCSD’s Academic Integrity Policy. Students in this course are expected to comply with this policy. Any student in violation of UCSD’s policy will automatically fail this class.

- If you seek a re-grade, you must email the professor within 72 hours of the assignment being returned to the class, and explain – in that email and in detail – why you believe you deserve reconsideration. I will then have the ability to review the entire exam, and the authority to increase your grade, decrease your grade, or keep the grade unchanged.
